

An Evening Gathering on Population & the Environment
Ecological Economics in a World of 7 Billion
Randy Hayes, founder of Rainforest Action Network (RAN)

Thursday, November 10th at 7:30 p.m.

Details:

What: Presentation and gathering for discussion on population studies

Where: Berkeley Unitarian Universalists - Fellowship Hall, 1924 Cedar St., Berkeley, CA

When: Thursday, November 10th at 7:30 p.m.

Come one, come all - this event is free and open to the public

HowMany.org is pleased to welcome speaker Randy Hayes, founder of Rainforest Action Network (RAN) and currently with Foundation Earth. Hayes is former Director of Sustainability in the office of Oakland Mayor Jerry Brown and served as president of the City of San Francisco Commission on the Environment. He also worked with activist Jerry Mander at the International Forum on Globalization.

Hayes will address ecological economics and the cultural, social, political and environmental impacts of overpopulation, overconsumption and globalization, including discussion of current “cheater economics” and its relationship to sustainability, growth and the Earth's carrying capacity.

“Randy Hayes is a hero and a visionary -- a radical messenger with the mentality of a Madison Avenue ad executive who is selling just one thing, saving the world before it is too late.”

- Adam Werbach, Former President of the Sierra Club

how many?org

HowMany.org is a project of the Institute for Population Studies (IPS).